- Penn Women in Physics group (2014-): Over the years I have participated in lunchtime discussions with our female majors about science, graduate school, research, balancing personal and professional responsibilities, etc.
- Department Diversity and Inclusion Group (2016-): Supported my student graduate student J.-L. Fischer in the founding of this Group, the goal of which is to teach awareness of issues faced by people who experience discrimination in STEM fields (with a focus on the field of physics), and to create a community of support in the department for those who may encounter these issues. The Group also organizes talks given by outside speakers about how these issues manifest themselves in physics, and possibly in other sciences.
